Business Supporter Story

CareFlight talk with Joanne Saliba, valued supporter, and Manager of Henfresh.

Established in the early 1980s, Henfresh is a family business that wholesales over 5,000 products, including eggs, baking ingredients, packaging, cake decorating, and food hardware. They own and operate a fleet of vehicles that distribute throughout New South Wales and the Australian Capital Territory, whilst partnering with other delivery services for nationwide deliveries. Based in Sydney's North West, Henfresh is proud to have supported CareFlight personally since 1993.

CF: What has prompted Henfresh to support a local charity?

It started many years ago when a lovely lady used to phone and ask to support CareFlight by buying a bear. Every so often we bought a few bears, until we end up having a large collection. This led me to ask, 'what else can I do to support CareFlight? We were introduced to Club CareFlight, the (Business Supporter Program) and we have been sponsoring ever since'.

CF: How has partnering with CareFlight benefited Henfresh?

Thankfully, we have never had to use the services of CareFlight, which is wonderful! I do believe it is a social responsibility for all profitable businesses to be able to give back to the greater community through organisations such as CareFlight. It is very important to give something back. We chose CareFlight because it saves lives - so if we can play small part in saving a life then it is money well spent.

CF: Which member benefit do you find most useful or interesting?

We appreciate any benefit received; nonetheless, we joined Club CareFlight to give back to our community. We appreciate the social media marketing, etc., but do not expect anything in return.

CF: What would you say to other community, businesses about CareFlight?

If you have a profitable business and are able to give to a charity- no matter how small or large; the donation is Tax Deductable, do so! CareFlight is fantastic service.
